Changing Labour Market and Gender Equality: The Role of Policy

DRAFT AGENDA

High level Conference organised jointly by the OECD, the Ministry of Children and Family Affairs and the Ministry of Labour and Government Administration, Norway
Oslo, 12 and 13 October 1998
Monday, 12th October

9h30-12h30 OPENING PLENARY

CONFERENCE PRESIDENT: Lucy Smith, Chancellor of University of Oslo

9h30-10h00 WELCOME AND OPENING STATEMENTS
Valgerd Svarstad Haugland, Minister of Children and Family Affairs, Norway
Thorvald Moe, Deputy Secretary-General, OECD

10h00-10h45 INITIAL PRESENTATIONS

Women in the labour market: A gender equality perspective
Jill Rubery, Manchester School of Management, United Kingdom

Enhancing gender equality by transitional labour markets
Günther Schmid, WZB, Germany

10h45-11h00 COFFEE BREAK

11h00-11h30 Commentary
(one or two policy makers to be confirmed)

11h30-12h30 General discussion

Issues that will be addressed in this session include:

- What is the extent of gender inequality on OECD labour markets to-day?
- In which ways does this differ from those of twenty years ago when gender equality became a specific area for public policy?
- What changes have taken place in the functioning of labour markets over this period?
- Are these likely to have an impact on gender occupational concentration and segregation?
- Looking forward to the 21st century, what basis is there for "gender equality" as an objective for policy?

12h30-14h30 LUNCH
Monday, 12th October

14h30-17h30 SIMULTANEOUS WORKSHOPS ON PRIORITY POLICY ISSUES

WORKSHOP A: LOW-PAY AND EQUAL-PAY

PRESIDENT: Shirley J. Wilcher, Deputy Assistant Secretary, Employment Standards Administration, Department of Labor, United States

RAPPORTEUR: Bob Gregory, The Australian National University, Australia

The pay-gap is the most significant indicator of gender inequality in the labour market. There is still evidence in all OECD countries of a substantial gap in the average pay rates of working women and men. The workshop will discuss two major issues related to the gender pay-gap: the extent of low-pay attached to unskilled jobs held by women and the undervaluation of female-dominated skilled jobs. The effectiveness of policies such as minimum wages, wage solidarity and equal pay for work of equal value in reducing the gender pay-gap will be assessed against current trends in wage-setting mechanisms.

14h30-15h10
Womens’ pay in a changing labour market
Bob Gregory, The Australian National University
General discussion

15h10-15h40
Wage solidarity policy and the gender pay-gap in Norway
Kjell Erik Lommerud, Institute of Economics,
University of Bergen

15h40-16h00 COFFEE BREAK

16h00-16h30
Introducing equal pay for work of equal value in collective bargaining: Belgium
Chris van Laere, Equal Opportunities Division,
Ministry of Labour and Employment

16h30-17h00
Minimum wages to protect women’s wages and reduce the gender pay-gap: United Kingdom
Shirley Dex, Judge Institute of Management,
University of Cambridge

17h00-17h30
General discussion
Monday, 12th October
14h30-17h30 PARALLEL WORKSHOPS ON PRIORITY POLICY ISSUES

WORKSHOP B: EMPLOYMENT FLEXIBILITY AND GENDER EQUALITY
PRESIDENT: Maria do Céu da Cunha Rêgo, President of the Commission for Equality in Work and Employment, Portugal
RAPPORTEUR: Margaret Maruani, CNRS-CSU, France

Flexibility in employment has several dimensions: functional, numerical and working-time flexibility. The two latter forms are those most often referred to in relation to gender equality on the labour market. Evidence shows that men and women participate to very different extents in the various forms of numerical and working-time flexibility and that this is a new source of gender inequalities. On the other hand, flexibility also brings new opportunities including for women. The workshop will focus on these new inequalities and new opportunities, in particular those inherent in working-time flexibility. It will assess the effectiveness of policies, such as part-time work, leave entitlements, family-friendly policies, in increasing employment opportunities for women and reducing gender inequalities.

14h30-15h10
Flexibility and the challenge of equality: Employment flexibility and gender equality
Margaret Maruani, CNRS-CSU, Paris
General discussion

15h10-15h45 Developments in the Nordic model of flexibility
The future of the worker-carer model in Norway
Anne Lise Ellingsaeter, Institute for Social Research, Oslo
Paid leave arrangements and gender equality: the Danish experience
Per Kongshøj Madsen, Institute of Political Science, University of Copenhagen

15h45-16h00 COFFEE BREAK

16h00-16h30 Public policies on part-time work in Japan
Hiroki Sato, Institute of Social Science, University of Tokyo

16h30-17h00 Temporary and contracted work in the United states: Policy issues and innovative responses
Françoise Carré, Public Policy Institute, Radcliffe College, Cambridge, MA

17h00-17h30 General discussion
Monday, 12th October
14h30-17h30  PARALLEL WORKSHOPS ON PRIORITY POLICY ISSUES

WORKSHOP C. MOBILITY AND CAREERS
PRESIDENT: Jacqueline Perker, Director, Office of the Deputy Minister for Employment and Vocational Training, France
RAPPORTEUR: Björg Aase Sörensen, Work Research Institute, Norway

Women have a relatively high level of labour market mobility when measured by movements in and out of the labour market, but a relatively low level of mobility in terms of earnings and career progression. Opportunities for continuous careers - with the same employer or in the same occupational area - are on the decline for the majority of workers, and new ways of achieving security are being sought. Maintaining employability emerges as the most important factor. Employability and mobility are improved through the accumulation of transferable skills and lifelong learning. Adjustment of social protection - particularly the “breadwinner model” - is needed to support new mobility patterns on the labour market for both women and men. The workshop will discuss the potential for gender equality of policies aimed at maintaining and developing mobility and employability over the lifecourse and at providing security linked to mobility between different activity status.

14h30-15h10
A gender perspective on mobility in the new organisational era
Björg Aase Sörensen, Work Research Institute, Norway
General discussion

15h10-15h40
Gender equity and Vocational Education and Training (VET) reform in Australia
Philip Candy, University of Ballarat

15h40-16h00  COFFEE BREAK

16h00-16h30
Creating conditions for women’s access to top positions: the experience of Sweden
Anna Wahl, Stockholm School of Economics

16h30-17h00
Gender equality, the labour market and innovation in social protection: the need for a systemic approach.
Ina Brouwer, Department of the Co-ordination of Emancipation Policy, Ministry of Social Affairs and Employment, Netherlands

17h00-17h30
General discussion
Tuesday, October 13

9h30-12h30  CONCLUDING PLENARY
CONFERENCE PRESIDENT: Lucy Smith, Chancellor of the University of Oslo

9h30-10h00    REPORTS FROM THE WORKSHOPS
  Workshop A: Low Pay and Equal Pay
  Workshop B: Employment Flexibility and Gender Equality
  Workshop C: Mobility and Careers

10h00-10h15   COFFEE BREAK

10H15-11h45  ROUNDTABLE
Chaired by Thorvald Moe, Deputy Secretary-General, OECD
  with the participation of policy-makers
  and
  Kristin Clemet, Confederation of Norwegian Business and Industry
  Nancy Riche, Canadian Labour Congress

The debate will focus on the effectiveness of current practices and policies in achieving gender equality and at the same time improving labour market efficiency. Policy-makers responsible for the status of women and labour market policies and high-level representatives on employers and labour side will be asked to identify the highest priority concerns in their respective areas and the mechanisms they see as key to achieving the twin objectives of gender equality and labour market efficiency; and to indicate how their actions might be inter-linked to, and reinforce, those of the other actors.

11h45-12h15
General discussion

12h15-12h30
CONCLUSIONS OF THE CONFERENCE
  Lucy Smith, President of the Conference